PRESENTATIONS

Amanda Standerfer updated the Board on the Strategic Plan. How the plan is used is reflected in the Director's Report each month. After the plan was adopted, the Library started creating activity plans at the department levels to align activities to the Strategic Plan goals. Amanda has consolidated all of the departmental activity plans into one plan, which will be updated as needed. The Activity Plan has helped departments see where activities overlap and given a better sense of what is happening in the Library.

Amanda also reported on the Strategic Plan evaluation process and gave the Board an evaluation framework that details some of the data that will be gathered. Some data is more near-term with statistics already collected, and other things will need to be created to get data, such as surveys, focus groups, and various feedback loops to see what the community thinks about the Library. One challenge will be how to bring all of the data together to create a report that shows tangible progress towards the Strategic Plan goals. The hope is to provide the Board an evaluation report every six months covering various data points that have been gathered.

Celeste Choate gave the Board a high level financial update of the Year To Date report that is on the Library's website. Revenue has been affected by the fact that the Library was closed for fifteen weeks in FY20 and not charging for most things. However, FY21 is looking fairly solid. The FY21 property tax line is inflated, because the last property tax payment for FY20 was not received until July 2020. Spending is generally on target, and the underspending in some lines will help offset the revenue losses. She encouraged the Board to let her know if they had any questions as they looked at the report. The draft budget for FY22 will be presented in April, for the Board vote in May to align with the City's budgeting process.
